Apple macOS Software License Terms – Simplified

1. Acceptance

- By using the software, you agree to these terms. If you disagree, don't install or use it. If the software came with your device and you return the device, you'll get a refund.

2. What You Can Do

- You can use one copy of the software on your Apple computer.
- Updates are included but may vary by device.
- You can only install and use the software on Apple devices.

3. Restrictions

- Don't copy, modify, or share the software in ways not allowed by these terms.
- You can't use it on non-Apple devices.
- You can make one backup copy for personal use.

4. Ownership

- The software belongs to Apple. You only get a license to use it, not ownership.

5. Data Usage

- Some features like Siri and Maps require internet and may share data with Apple. Your information will be handled as per Apple's Privacy Policy.

6. Third-Party Content

- The software may show third-party content (like maps or news). Apple isn't responsible for its accuracy.

7. No Guarantees

- The software is provided "as-is." Apple doesn't promise it will always work perfectly or be error-free.

8. Liability

- Apple isn't responsible for damages or losses (e.g., lost data, downtime).

9. Termination

- Apple can terminate this license if you violate the terms. You must stop using the software and delete it if this happens.

10. Updates & Features

- Apple can update or remove software features anytime.

11. Legal Use

- You must follow all local laws when using the software.
